Sher with Patricia Heaton and Neil Flynn

Quick Clicks The Middle's Eden Sher once again did not receive an Emmy nomination for her portrayal of sunny teenager Sue Heck—much to the chagrin of Mare Winter, who wrote in to say that “whatever the writers give her, Eden turns into gold. Her performance is a work of art! I will lose respect for the Academy if she continues to be ignored.” ...Sandy Voss strongly disagreed with our jeer of Whoopi Goldberg's about-face regarding the allegations against Bill Cosby [Cheers & Jeers, July 27]. “I could see how she had trouble balancing her admiration for Cosby with her always-on-display concern regarding women's issues,” Voss wrote. “I think she waited until the evidence was indisputable. Whoopi is a loyal friend and a good feminist.”

Is It Time to End The View?

Cohost turnover and backstage turmoil may prove too much for Barbara Walters's longtime hit BY ILEANE RUDOLPH

In 1997, ABC News doyenne Barbara Walters launched The View, a daytime talk show that New York Times critic Caryn James cited as “wildly different” with “smart and accomplished” women defying “the bubbleheads ‘R’ us approach to women’s talk shows.” The View and its five multigenerational, multiethnic and very opinionated hosts earned strong ratings and, in 2003, the Daytime Emmy for best talk show; it became a cultural touchstone whose interviews and feuds were routinely lampooned by late-night comics, most memorably on Saturday Night Live.

While the show successfully survived various host changes—Meredith Vieira, Rosie O'Donnell and Star Jones, among others—with the exit of Walters last year, the formula seemed to stop working. Season 18 debuted with 3.9 million viewers but by the end was averaging 2.8 million. “The View is not the center of conversation like it used to be when even people who never watched the show heard jokes about it and knew what was going on,” says Syracuse University media professor Robert Thompson. “Now, if you do hear about the show, it’s generally about its troubles.”

Those troubles came to a head this season. While O'Donnell returned to the series with great fanfare and a boost in ratings, she left less than five months later, citing personal problems (and was clearly not a good match with moderator Whoopi Goldberg). Rosie Perez, the show's first full-time Latina host, and GOP political operative Nicolle Wallace didn't create much of an impression and weren't invited back for another season.

The revolving door going on behind the cameras was just as notable. Ben Sherwood, the new Disney-ABC Television

FUTURE?

Bure and Raven-Symoné were frequent guest cohosts this season. Raven-Symoné has signed on full-time for next season; Bure is also expected to.

Group president, moved the series from the entertainment department to the news division. Some of the show's long-time producers and directors, including Walters's business partner Bill Geddie, quit or were fired. (Walters sold her 50 percent stake in The View three years ago.) Sources say unhappiness among the staff about the uncertainty of the show's direction is common.

have their place, but only in combination with more weighty topics. "There is a way to do news and politics that is entertaining and fun. We did that for years." In fact, Barack Obama's first View appearance as president in 2010 brought in 6.6 million viewers, and Behar and Goldberg drew headlines a few months later when they walked off set during an argument with Fox News' Bill O'Reilly.

But don't give up on The View just yet, Thompson cautions. "The formula is still viable," he says, "but the frequent turn-overs have been problematic. Viewers expect to see the same people on these kinds of shows. All it needs is a group of people who click in interesting ways—interesting could mean serious discussion, or it could be fireworks and feuds."

When The View launches Season 19 in September, Goldberg will be joined by comic Michelle Collins and actress Raven-Symoné. As of press time, Good Morning America's Paula Faris and actress Candace Cameron Bure were also expected to sign on. Former cohost Sherri Shepherd will return as a contributor; fashion expert Stacy London and actress Molly Sims reportedly will too.

Certainly, ABC is still optimistic. "The View has held a unique place in pop culture since its inception," the network tells us in a statement. "The biggest names in politics and entertainment come to The View, and millions tune in to

"When I joined the show, Barbara had a real concept. There is no concept now. It could be any bunch of women sitting around talking, and I think that's a negative." —Joy Behar

That uncertainty is one of the reasons that Joy Behar, who left the show in 2013, just turned down a chance to return to The View as a 50-episode-per-year contributor. "When I first joined the show, Barbara had a real concept about women of different ages, different backgrounds and different points of view," she tells us in an exclusive interview. "There is no concept now. It could be any bunch of women sitting around talking. I think that's a negative."

Behar also notes the drift to more fluffy topics. "The irony is that [the news division] took over and it's less newsy. They took off Nicole, who is a political pundit, so there may be no politics in a decidedly political year." Behar says that lighter topics like the Kardashians

A source once close to the show agrees that "it's lost its meaning from the days when it was about smart talk for women and viewers identified with the hosts. Now it often seems more like a freak show."

The ratings decline this past season allowed rival women-led chatfests like CBS's The Talk and the syndicated The Real to surge. For the second quarter of 2015, The Talk beat The View for the first time in both total viewers and women age 18–49.

hear a smart, lively, authentic—and often funny—take on the hot topics of the day. We're proud of the great shows we put on, thankful to our viewers and excited for what's ahead."

Maybe so, but, Behar insists, "The View needs to make news. These days," she adds with a laugh, playing off the tagline of Fred Armisen's famous Saturday Night Live impersonation of her, "so what? Who cares?"

Goldberg, Behar, Walters, Elisabeth Hasselbeck and Shepherd kept The View at the top of the ratings for years

Noah faces the critics on July 29

One-on-one with Netflix content boss Ted Sarandos

You're premiering 475 hours of original programming, including new shows like Fuller House, in the coming year. What's the limit? As long as the subscriber base is growing and the number of hours that people are spending on Netflix is growing, we want to keep pushing.

A&E canceled Longmire because of its older, advertiser-unfriendly demographics. You guys picked it up, so that doesn't appear to be an issue for you. I don't know what older guys who watch Longmire buy, but I do know they have credit cards, and they can subscribe to Netflix to watch Longmire.

Can all shows be saved? They're not all savable or should be. Hannibal has a deal with Amazon that prevented it from even being a discussion [with us]. I like the flavor of Wet Hot American Summer, the ability to revisit the players and storytelling but put a different twist on it.

Chelsea Handler said there are technical issues to solve before her show launches. The show itself will be a little more topical than things we've done in the past, so we want to be able to produce it and get it up right away.

The TV Academy denied your petition to keep Orange Is the New Black in the Emmy comedy race, but it still did quite well with drama nominations. The show is really beyond category. It's a drama that's sometimes really funny, and a comedy that's sometimes really serious.

5 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DAILY SHOW HOST TREVOR NOAH

1. The Daily Show With Trevor Noah will feature a new set and new logo, but there will be plenty of continuity from Jon Stewart's regime. For starters, the entire senior producing staff is sticking around. "The show still has its voice. I'm just at the helm," Noah says.

2. But do expect a very different point of view. "I am a 31-year-old half-white, half-black South African who has lived on and off in America the last several years," Noah says. "The way we tackle an issue will be completely different."

3. Noah specializes in vocal mimicry and accents, a skill that comes from speaking seven languages. He hails from modest beginnings in Soweto and was the first member of his family to board a plane.

4. Like Stewart, Noah stresses that he's a comedian, not a journalist. "This is our comedic view on the news, as opposed to news with a comedic view. That's an important distinction."

5. Noah isn't fazed by his recent Twitter controversy, in which racist, sexist and anti-Semitic tweets he made years ago came to light. "People ask me, 'Have you changed?' Twitter changed. And I changed with it."

HBO: A Lot More Game Left in Thrones

Thrones' Kit Harington (right) and John Bradley

JON SNOW IS gone—"He be dead," HBO programming president Michael Lombardo says—but Game of Thrones is very much alive. The hit drama, which attracted more than 20 million viewers last season (when all platforms have been factored), is now shooting Season 6, and per Lombardo, the show's producers are contemplating at least two more years beyond that.

As for negative critical reaction to the current season of True Detective, Lombardo says he stands behind creator Nic Pizzolatto, and the two have broached the subject of a third season (although there's no news yet of a pickup). And don't give up hope on more Curb Your Enthusiasm: Lombardo doesn't think the comedy is "out of [Larry David's] system. He'll come back to it. He wants to have something to say."

WHAT I DO

Garson Yu, Title Sequence Designer

His work sets the tone for a show—often before a character has even uttered a word. Title sequence designer Garson Yu and his company, yU+co, created the snowscapes of Olive Kitteridge (for which he just earned an Emmy nomination), the busy animated hub of Silicon Valley, the blurred glimpses into The Walking Dead and the artistic sorrow outlined in The Leftovers. Yu breaks down what it means to be a story starter. —Emily Maas

How did you get into title design? I studied graphic design at Yale. I used to do posters and printed materials, and I decided to find another medium. At that time, there weren't many companies that did main title design, so we had the opportunity to work on a lot of great films. Later on, I started to get involved in broadcast design and title design.

How do you work with a show's producers? We get guidance from them in terms of setting the tone. They will send us a few episodes or some scripts.

What makes the Olive Kitteridge sequence special? Usually title sequences are very contemporary, like True Detective. My work is a little bit less edgy. I think that Olive Kitteridge's sequence is very quiet and very internal. It reflects the character's state of mind. You are sinking in, deeper and deeper.

Which sequence do you wish you'd thought of? Mad Men. It's not about the style, really; it's about the metaphor. It hit the mark of the entire show. We pitched on that and didn't get it.

Which sequence are you most proud of? I love all my children, but I really liked Desperate Housewives. That was something that set up a new trend, using the pop-up book. Silicon Valley, Olive Kitteridge...I put a lot of thought and emotions into The Leftovers. I like everything. I think it's important that we like what we do.

MY OBSESSIONS

The Late Late Show With James Corden's Reggie Watts

The device I watch on Apple TV and Amazon Fire.

The funniest person on TV is Broad City's Abbi Jacobson and Ilana Glazer. They are the same person and come from another dimension.

That's why no one comes close to their superior comedic advantage.

What I eat while watching

I tend to eat sprouted almond butter and kombucha.

The show I miss most Continuum. It's a sci-fi show with a lot of heart and intelligence. I love that it's a Canadian production because Canadians are awesome at weird stuff.

The show I'd like to guest star on
A cut scene of Cosmos: A Spacetime Odyssey because science is one of the only important things to see on TV.

My dream costar
Nikola Tesla. He was a wacky dude who created insane electrical monstrosities. Without him there would be no TV (probably not true).

My celebrity crush
Nathalie Emmanuel (Game of Thrones). She's willing to take risks, she's smart and she's British.

Roberts Reflects on Katrina

When Robin Roberts's eyes swelled with tears as she reported from the Gulf Coast the morning after Hurricane Katrina hit in 2005, she thought her career was over. For the Good Morning America coanchor, the tragedy was personal: She had been trying unsuccessfully to reach her own family in Mississippi. But, after a police officer helped her reunite with them, Roberts made it to the location set with just minutes to spare before going live on the air.

"I broke down like that because I was grateful that I found my family," Roberts says. "But I also was thinking, 'Oh my gosh, many people are tuning in and they are feeling just like I felt, not knowing [if their] loved ones are OK.'"

That raw display of emotion didn't leave Roberts with a pink slip—instead, her humanity became an unforgettable moment amid one of the nation's deadliest natural disasters. And now, a decade after the storm that caused an estimated $108 billion in damages and took at least

The Gulf Coast "is still a region that is in need of attention," says Roberts (with Brees)

1,833 lives, Roberts is hosting Katrina: 10 Years After the Storm (Sunday, August 23, 10/9c, ABC).

The special features moving stories of those impacted by Katrina, including a man who used his boat to rescue people stranded on Highway 90 before docking on the third floor of a motel. A woman from the Mississippi Gulf Coast tells how she held on to a tree for hours in 30 feet of water after the storm claimed her home and her husband. And with appearances by New Orleans Saints quarterback Drew Brees and Big Easy native Harry Connick Jr., the broadcast will spotlight what's happening in the region today.

"People are still picking up their lives down there on the coast. We can't just go on to the next disaster and forget those who have gone through life-altering situations," Roberts says. "Yes, progress has been made. [But] it's an unfolding story, and there are still many chapters to be written." —Gregory E. Miller

LEGAL NOTICE

If you purchased the muscle relaxant Skelaxin or generic metaxalone, your rights may be affected by and you could get a payment from a class action settlement.

A settlement has been reached with Mutual Pharmaceutical Company, Inc. ("Mutual") in a class action lawsuit about whether Mutual and King Pharmaceuticals, Inc. ("King") acted unlawfully to keep generic versions of Skelaxin off the market. Mutual denies all of the claims in the lawsuit, but has agreed to the settlement to avoid the cost and risk of a trial. The lawsuit is not proceeding against King.

Who's Included? The settlement includes people and entities in the U.S. or its territories who purchased, paid for or reimbursed some or all of the purchase price of Skelaxin or its AB-rated generic equivalent (metaxalone) at retail or mail order pharmacies located in AZ, AR, CA, FL, IA, KS, ME, MA, MI, MN, MS, MO, NE, NV, NM, NY, NC, ND, OR, PA, RI, SC, SD, TN, VT, VA, WV, WI, or Washington, D.C., in any form, for personal or family use, or for their members, employees, insureds, participants, or beneficiaries, other than for resale, between November 4, 2005 and August 5, 2014 ("Settlement Class Members"). There are two groups included in the settlement: consumers and third party payors ("TPPs"). If you are a consumer and your insurance plan requires you to pay a flat co-payment (the same amount for Skelaxin and generic metaxalone), you are not included in the settlement.

What Does the Settlement Provide? A $9 million Settlement Fund has been established by Mutual. After the deducting Plaintiffs' Class Counsel attorneys' fees and expenses and the costs of settlement notice and administration, 28% of the net Settlement Fund will be made available to consumers and 72% will be made available to TPPs. Payments will be based on the qualifying amount of Skelaxin or generic metaxalone purchased, the amount paid for those purchases and the total amount of purchases claimed. Consumers will receive their share of the consumer portion of the net Settlement Fund in proportion to their qualifying purchases.

How Do You Get a Payment? You must submit a claim form by October 31, 2015. Claims may be submitted online or downloaded for mailing at www.skelaxinsettlement.com. Claim forms and instructions are also available by calling 1-866-267-0396 or by writing to In re Skelaxin (Metaxalone) Antitrust Litigation, PO Box 43278, Providence, Rhode Island 02940-3278.

Your Other Options. If you are included in the settlement class and you do nothing you do nothing, your rights will be affected and you won't get a payment. If you don't want to be legally bound by the settlement, you must exclude yourself from it by September 28, 2015. Unless you exclude yourself, you won't be able to sue or continue to sue Mutual for any claim made in this lawsuit or released by the Settlement Agreement. If you stay in the settlement (i.e., don't exclude yourself), you may object to it or ask for permission for you or your own lawyer to appear and speak at the hearing—at your own cost—but you don't have to. Objections and requests to appear are due by September 28, 2015. More information about these options is in the detailed notice available at www.skelaxinsettlement.com.

The Court will hold a hearing in this case (In re Skelaxin (Metaxalone) Antitrust Litigation, MDL No. 1:12-md-2343) on November 2, 2015 to consider whether to approve the settlement and Plaintiffs' Class Counsel attorneys' fees of up to 33 1/3% of the Settlement Fund, plus reasonable costs and expenses. If approved, these fees, costs and expenses will be paid from the Settlement Fund before making payments to Settlement Class Members.

Show Me a Hero

A city's racial divide causes political strife

Miniseries premiere, Sunday, Aug. 16, 8/7c, HBO

We've often heard that politics is local. And in David Simon's (The Wire) latest searing account of urban discord, we're also reminded how unforgiving and brutal it can be.

The flawed, tragic hero of this engrossing six-hour docudrama, airing in two-hour blocks over three Sundays, is ambitious city leader Nick Wasiczko (an appealingly brash Oscar Isaac). His rise and fall from mayor to pariah in Yonkers, New York, spanning a period from 1987–93, is yoked to the city's explosive opposition to a federal order to integrate Yonkers by building 200 units of low-income housing in resentful white, middle-class neighborhoods.

"When's the fun part start?" Mayor Nick wonders, swigging Maalox to soothe the stress of presiding over turbulent town meetings in which he's pilloried as a pushover and turncoat. "Justice is not about popularity," says the judge (Bob Balaban) who threatens to bankrupt the city if it doesn't comply. "But politics is," says Nick, who loses his bearings when stripped of power.

Nick's decline, grounded in a somber, unflashy realism by director Paul Haggis (Crash), plays out within a parable of race and class schisms, with serialized subplots humanizing the disadvantaged citizens from the projects, who face a hostile housewarming upon moving day. Ultimately, there is some hope in this grim story. But, sadly, no hero's welcome. ★★★★★

Blunt Talk

Series premiere, Saturday, Aug. 22, 9/8c, Starz

HARD TO SAY who's the greater masochist: Walter Blunt (hammy Patrick Stewart), a self-destructive cable-news blowhard who submits to flagellation by his bizarre manservant (Adrian Scarborough) after his latest public scandal, or anyone who chooses to watch this perversely unpleasant workplace comedy. "I need to be a better father to the American people—and of course to my own children," decides the much-married Blunt, whose behavior on and off camera is a queasy blur of smarmy and maudlin. To paraphrase a more memorable mad anchorman (Network's Howard Beale): I'm bored as hell and I'm not going to watch this anymore. ★☆☆☆☆

Pig Thing

An exclusive look at America's favorite felt heroes' return to TV in The Muppets

BY DAMIAN HOLBROOK

It may not be easy being green, but it's about to get a lot more fun for the world's most famous amphibian when the Muppets make their overdue return to TV this fall.

"It's wonderful, isn't it?" marvels Kermit the Frog, ringleader of the beloved menagerie at the center of ABC's The Muppets. Indeed it is. The latest entry in the crew's anthropomorphic oeuvre—a gag-packed, behind-the-scenes look at a late-night talk show, hosted by Miss Piggy, natch—is a joyful mash-up of The Office and The Larry Sanders Show, as performed by felt animals. Including, literally, Animal.

"We are doing something that hasn't been done before—two shows at the same time," Kermit says. "One of them, the most important one, is a late-night show called Up Late With Miss Piggy." The other is a backstage documentary being filmed about the making of Piggy's chatfest, but if you ask the Up Late hostess, it's really all about her. Like most things.

"You know, the fans always want more these days, and so we decided, actually I decided, to let a team of documentarians follow me wherever I went," the ageless blonde diva says. "I'm completely comfortable with giving my fans an all-access pass."

She's in good hands (no pun intended). The Muppets comes after multiple attempts to reboot the franchise.

We're never mean. And we don't talk down to our audience. We speak to them with a smart, sophisticated humor. That's always been the key for the Muppets.
—Debbie McClellan, vice president of The Muppets Studio

"It happens every 20 years: 1976 was The Muppet Show, 1996 was Muppets Tonight, and now this one," points out Debbie McClellan, vice president of The Muppets Studio. "We had a lot of people trying to bring the gang back in some form." The popularity of the recent films The Muppets and Muppets Most Wanted certainly helped audiences get reacquainted with Kermit and Co. Among their biggest supporters was executive producer Bill Prady (The Big Bang Theory). "I started talking about this particular project 10 years ago, and eight years ago we even shot some test footage," he says of his previous stalled pitches. "Back then, the feeling was that the timing just wasn't right. Now, apparently, it is!" It's also right that the obviously patient Prady be the one to bring the Muppets back to primetime: After all, he got his start writing for Muppet creator Jim Henson in 1982 after leaving his job (and eventual BBT inspiration) as a computer programmer.

"Jim was producing a show about technology at the time—though it wound up never getting made—and I was hired to be a production assistant and researcher because I had that computer background," he says. "The Muppet offices in those days were in this amazing townhouse on a residential street on the Upper East Side of New York City. Imagine what the Muppetiest old New York mansion would look like if you got it exactly right. It was like going to Kermit the Frog's house every day!"

After working with writers like Douglas Adams (The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy) and several Sesame Street scribes on that project, Prady moved to the company's licensing and merchandising department, cranking out copy for everything from Muppet-themed computer software to the packaging for Kermit the Frog plush toys. "I looked around and said, 'I will take any job here. Any job.'"

That willingness earned Prady the attention of Henson, and he quickly moved on to penning Muppet comic books, jokes for the Dial-a-Muppet phone line (yep, that was a real thing) and episodes of 1987's Fraggle Rock: The Animated Series before landing a full-time position on 1989's The Jim Henson Hour. That anthology featuring the icon's top-tier Muppets as well as newbies (who remembers the semirobotic Digit? Exactly) vanished after nine episodes, but it solidified Prady's place in the puppetverse. "My Muppet experience," he recalls fondly, "was working with Jim Henson every day." Fittingly, Prady earned an Emmy nod in 1991 for cowriting the tribute special The Muppets Celebrate Jim Henson following the legend's passing the previous year.

Of course, a lot has changed since Henson unleashed his globally adored puppets. Originally introduced in 1955 on Washington, D.C.'s daily Sam and Friends sketch series, several of the characters soon found a home in 1969 on Sesame Street (a Children's Television Workshop production, and separate from The Muppets Studio), while a new batch of Henson creations was featured in regular bits on the first season of Saturday Night Live in 1975 and 1976. Along the way, there have been eight feature films, countless guest appearances, TV movies and specials, the aforementioned Jim Henson Hour and 1996's equally brief Muppets Tonight.

No matter the missteps, it has always been the group's comedy-variety hit The Muppet Show, which ran from 1976 to 1981, that remains the gold standard. The show was filled with celebrity guests, goofy sketches and fresh furry faces like Gonzo and Fozzie, and the backstage mayhem at Muppet Theater was weekly, wickedly funny proof that these creatures could appeal to kids and their parents. In fact, one of the two pilot episodes for The Muppet Show parodied the growing amount of sex and violence on TV at the time. "The Muppets can go on Good Morning America and Saturday Night Live...on the same day," McClellan says. "We don't talk down to our audiences, and we're never mean to each other. We speak to the fans with a smart, sophisticated humor. That, I think, has always been the key to the Muppets—that kind of comedy."

For the new series to work, the producers looked to the past for an idea on how to drive that comedy. "When

Henson in 1977 with some of the characters he personally operated. "What Jim used to do when he created things was make stuff he loved and hope fans would love it too," executive producer Prady says

The Muppet Show came on in the 1970s, the dominant form of entertainment on TV was still the variety show," Prady explains, citing everyone from Sonny and Cher to the Smothers Brothers. "The Muppet Show was mocking [that format]. If Jim Henson were alive today, he wouldn't make a variety show, because that's not what's big on TV. He'd look at the mock-documentary style that came to the U.S. from England—The Office and Parks and Recreation and Modern Family—and say, 'Let's try to make fun of that.'"

We Love the Muppets!

THE MUPPETS HAVE a long history of popping up on our covers, starting with their first appearance on the December 12, 1970, issue featuring a look at their Ed Sullivan-narrated Christmas musical special, The Great Santa Claus Switch. Fozzie and Kermit pulled the curtain back on the August 6, 1977, story "Behind Every Great Muppet...Stands Jim Henson," while Piggy hammed it up for our August 1, 1981, cover about her "Life at Le Top." The November 17, 1990, issue paid tribute to the late Henson, and Billy Crystal joined Kermie, Animal and Gonzo for the March 16, 1996, Kids' TV preview heralding their return in Muppets Tonight. "I've had the luck to work with a lot of great actors," Crystal said. "But these performers can improvise with the best of them. Though I will be allergic to felt for the rest of my life!"

Split Happens

HEARTBREAK! BETRAYAL! BACON-FLAVORED interlopers! The rumors are true: Kermit and Miss Piggy are over. In their first interview since ending their decades-spanning romance, the diva and her ex (recently linked to another pig named Denise, a marketing exec on their new show) open up about life apart. —DH

How is it on set at The Muppets since your breakup?

Piggy: I have always been professional, so it really has no effect whatsoever on the workplace for moi. But you seem uncomfortable, Kermit.

Kermit: No, I'm fine—

Piggy: I'm totally comfortable that you turned your back on true love....

Kermit: Good grief.

Piggy: And ran into the arms of another woman!

OK, let's calm down. Is there anything you want your fans to know?

Kermit: Do we have to talk about this? This is public.

Piggy: Our fans have expectations. They want to see certain things...some people out there would like to see us together. And I am sad that I have to disappoint them, but they're still going to enjoy this, and they're going to see some action. Maybe not between us.

Can you really work together successfully?

Kermit: Sure. I mean, things change over the course of one's many years. We have worked together successfully for a very long time and will continue to do so.

Then say one nice thing about each other.

Kermit: Piggy is extremely talented and this will be a wonderful television program.

Piggy: And Kermit, at one time, you had very good taste.

Kermit: Well, thank you. At one time?

"I'm not jealous,"

Kermit says of Piggy dating while he works on her show.

"It's just...it's a tough time"

The fans always want more these days. And I'm completely comfortable with giving them an all-access pass. —Miss Piggy

And we bet he'd be proud. The 10-minute trailer Prady and company pitched to ABC, with its legalized marijuana joke and edgy innuendo-laden gags, is both nostalgia heaven and as sharp and relevant as ever. That's thanks in large part to the decision to give the Muppets actual backstories—Fozzie is dating a human! Rowlf runs a tavern!—and set them in the real world, while also honoring their Muppet Show roots as the most diverse cast working in showbiz. That's right: The entire puppet posse is on staff at Up Late. "Kermit is the executive producer of the show and he deals with the very difficult host in Miss Piggy," laughs cocreator Bob Kushell. "Fozzie is the sidekick and warm-up act, Gonzo is the head writer with Rizzo the Rat and Pepe the King Prawn working for him, and Scooter is the talent coordinator/scout."

In addition, a parade of celebrity guests will be visiting Piggy's show. (The original series featured Julie Andrews, Johnny Cash and Elton John, to name just a few.) Up Late's "live" studio audience will include those beloved balcony curmudgeons Statler and Waldorf, the house band will be Dr. Teeth and the Electric Mayhem, the Swedish Chef is handling catering, and Sam the Eagle is sure to be hawking around the wings now that he's landed the perfect gig in Standards and Practices.

It's a roster that should entice the most jaded star (and animal control officer), yet at least one key player involved seems to be looking down her snout at the assembled employees. "You know, if I had been hiring, it would've been a completely different staff," confesses the notoriously picky Piggy. "The one thing I like is that Fozzie does my preshow warm-up, and he's absolutely horrible at it. That's a good thing for me, because he sets the bar low and then people can enjoy moi even more."

Miss Piggy's disdain may be related to issues more personal than personnel (see sidebar), and it is so far the only sign of backstage drama as Up Late—and The Muppets—heads into production. "Coming together to develop and create this world has been such an amazing process," says Kushell, speaking for, we assume, the show's human contingent. As for the rest of the Muppets, it sounds like they too are all about making sure their new show reestablishes the rainbow connection with fans. And Kermit, for one, is thrilled to have at least some of that pressure off what he calls his "nonexistent shoulders."

"You can do anything with them," he raves, always so supportive of his zoological crew. "And many of them just work for food. That's always nice."

Better get busy, Chef!

A WOLK TO REMEMBER

ZOO'S JAMES WOLK is part rare bird—and part lucky duck. CBS's summer hit (Tuesdays, 9/8c) is adapted from James Patterson and Michael Ledwidge's novel, which finds animals turning on their human masters, and it marks the actor's fifth pivotal TV role in as many years. The 30-year-old has already worked with vets such as Jon Voight, Sigourney Weaver and the late Robin Williams. And he's got a set of gams (as displayed on Mad Men) that would turn Cyd Charisse chartreuse. How'd he swing those roles? "Ignorance and blind faith," he claims. "I arrived in L.A. at 24 thinking, 'Just let me get a good TV job, please?'" We asked him to ruminate on those instances in which his request has been granted.

Mad Men (2013–2014)

Even Wolk didn't know that Bob Benson, his insidiously ambitious account exec on Mad Men, had a secret identity. "S---t got weird!" he says. "All of a sudden, Bob was talking Spanish! Wolk also wasn't aware he'd be baring his legs in Bob's tiny white chinos. "The costume designer laid out seven pairs of shorts that got exponentially shorter as they went from left to right," he remembers. "I said, 'The ones on the right are obviously insane, but the left ones are short, too!' We ended up using the ones on the right. For it to go viral was way out of my comfort zone."

The Zoo star looks back at his key television roles, from Texas trickster to short-shortened huckster BY AUBRY D'ARMINIO

Lone Star (2010)

Wolk was just two years out of drama school when he convinced Fox executives that he'd be perfect to star opposite Voight as an enigmatic Texas grifter living a double life. The show's fervent critical praise yet quick cancellation sobered up the Hollywood newbie. "It was heartbreaking to find out that you can have the best reviews in the world and be touted as the 'Next Big Show' but still last only two episodes," Wolk remembers. "I learned to be humble and enjoy the creative process because you can't control its outcome."

The Crazy Ones (2013–2014)

This sitcom's pilot script called Wolk's ad man "George Clooney, but better looking. That's a lot of pressure. It's like Michael Phelps—but a better swimmer!" the actor says with a laugh. "So I figured if someone would fail at it, I would." The upswing: He'd get to work with Williams. "My best memory is improvising a song about 'drive-through loving' with him while trying to get Kelly Clarkson to be in a McDonald's commercial," Wolk says. "When the master of comedy laughs at something you did, that's a great feeling. I wouldn't trade that to be on 10 seasons of another show."

Political Animals (2012)

Wolk played the good, gainfully employed twin brother Douglas to Sebastian Stan's floundering, bad-boy cokehead T.J. in this D.C.-set miniseries about the secretary of state (Sigourney Weaver) and her troubled family. But Douglas was the good son only at first. "He became so screwed up," Wolk says. "His faults were just more hidden, and I'd learned on Lone Star how to play that." Wolk, who'd previously acted with Weaver in the 2010 movie You Again, did not think she'd remember him when they reconvened. "But she did!" he recalls happily.

Zoo (2015)

As reluctant hero Jackson Oz, a safari guide living in Africa who is Earth's only hope, Wolk does a great deal of running, jumping and fighting with beasts (both live and CGI). "I was hungry to play the action star," he says, admitting, "The bears are really sweet. They are these big, scary Kodiak brown bears, but they're like puppies with their trainers." He still, however, is not a fan of squirrels. "I was on a camping trip when I was a kid," Wolk says, "and a squirrel fell on me, and ever since then, I've just been a little squirrely!"

LADIES'

Heidi Klum and Mel B.
dish on their favorite acts, sex and what really goes on under the judges' table

BY INGELA RATLEDGE

Gravity-defying aerialists. A magician and his tiny dog dressed in matching dragon costumes.

A dude who can squirt milk out of his eye sockets. Now in its 10th hit season on NBC, America's Got Talent—a gloriously strange bonanza of acts vying for a $1 million prize—stands proudly alone as the modern-day keeper of vaudeville's torch. So it's fitting that the two women currently holding court at the judges' table have some pretty colorful résumés of their own: German supermodel turned Project Runway poobah Heidi Klum and British multihyphenate entertainer Mel B., a veteran of the mega-band Spice Girls. With the live rounds of the competition about to begin, we sat down with the on- and off-screen pals to chat about their perspective from the front row.

This is the third year that you're judging alongside satellite-radio shock jock Howard Stern and comedian Howie Mandel. How did it all begin?

Klum: I had been in the running for the job, but then it didn't happen. I read that Mel got the gig and thought, "Too bad."

NIGHT

Then, all of a sudden—literally three days before we started filming—I got the call while I was on holiday in Hawaii. It was the first time they'd had four judges, and I guess they didn't want to spill the beans.

Mel B.: I was very happy when they confirmed it. I knew they'd been talking to Heidi and wanted her. I'm a fan of hers, period. She's a powerhouse!

Klum: I was a fan of Melanie's too. She does what I would've loved to have done: sing. You know, we are all closet singers.

Mel B.: Heidi sings all the time. She has a great voice. It's very, very high.

Just for the record, then: You actually get along.

Klum: We enjoy each other's company. You know, it's good that we're two girls against two guys on AGT, because it feels like that sometimes. They talk over our heads and make us feel like we're not there in the middle.

Mel B.: I like working with another woman who's got her thing together.

Klum: It has always bothered me when people make up these stories that we don't like each other.

Mel B.: It's just lazy journalism, someone sitting there saying, "Oh, two women. Let's do the obvious—catfight!"

Heidi has four kids, Mel has three. Is it mayhem when they all come to set?

Klum: It is not mayhem for us, because we're used to it!

Mel B.: But for Howard, he's like, "Can they be quiet?"

Klum: The kids will ask him, "Is your hair real? Is it a wig?" They're all over him, and he just walks off.

Do you two trade notes on parenting?

Mel B.: We talk a lot about a bunch of things—like sex. Just joking!

Klum: Don't say you're joking, because we do talk about sex.

Mel B.: One minute we'll be talking about our kids, the next we'll be talking about the act, then it's our hair and makeup.

Heidi is always correcting lashes or something on me. At the end of the day, we're girly girls. Working girly girls!

What secrets from the judges' table can you spill?

Mel B.: I sit on a cushion this big [holds her arms out wide]. Otherwise I would look so short beside Heidi. Both of us have an obsession with our phones. We're on them constantly under the desk.

Klum: That drives Howard crazy. He's like, "You guys should focus." What should we focus on when it's a break? Sometimes they have to change around the set for an act, so we sit and wait.

Mel B.: Howie doesn't sit still. He needs to move around constantly.

Klum: He's a goofball, but he's so good with words. He can grab something and make a joke out of it on the spot. It's amazing.

Mel B.: I don't always find his jokes that funny, I will be the first to say.

Klum: But 80 percent of the time, [his joking] works.

Mel B.: I would say 50/50.

Klum: The guys love to hear themselves talk. The producer will come up to us and say, "Keep it short." He's always looking at me and Mel, but he really means them. He's too scared to tell them.

Can you usually anticipate how your cohorts will react to a performance?

Klum: I get surprised by Howard, because he always talks about the integrity of the show, but then he will let someone through who whistles like a bird or puts a balloon through his nose and out his mouth. With me, you can tell what I feel is good and not good.

Mel B.: You don't like the acts where self-harm is involved.

Klum: Remember the guy who lifted a girl up by his piercings? Disgusting, freak things I am not into.

Mel B.: I don't mind it! Both Heidi and I are suckers for acts with kids.

Klump: And magic.

Mel B.: If it's good. Sometimes it's so janky. We'll see a guy take a ball and hide it behind his back and it's like, "Oh, no."

Howard has been saying on his radio program that this is his last season of judging on AGT. Who would you like to see replace him?

Klump: He says that every time.

Mel B.: I won't buy it until I hear it from his mouth. Or Beth [Stern, Howard's wife] will be the one to tell us! Our panel works really well. Between the four of us, we've got every angle of entertainment experience covered, so there would be hard boots to fill if any of us left.

Klump: I love it the way it is.

The live shows at Radio City Music Hall are starting. Do you have to get into a different headspace for that?

Klump: It's harder on my nerves. Because in the back of my head, I'm thinking that 12 million people are watching, and that's really frightening. I have these blackout moments where I borderline can't even remember my own name.

Mel B.: I like the live shows—the energy, the nervousness, the vibe of high-intensity drama it creates. Literally anything can happen. I've programmed myself not to say anything too out there, like the F-bomb, for example. Although it has happened.

Since you're not spending enough time together already, Mel will also be a guest judge on this season of Project Runway. What's it like being on Heidi's turf?

Mel B.: Project Runway is her thing, and she's amazing at it. Heidi, I like how you get up on that runway and you're in control of everything. You do a speech and you're very direct and there's not a bit of nerves.

Klump: It's kind of my home. Fourteen [seasons] into it, that part is automatic.

Your jobs are to give your opinion on TV. Does the need to scrutinize ever spill over into the rest of your lives?

Klump: My judging does go over into my normal life. Like I'll ask a guy at work, "Why did you shave your beard? Why are you not wearing shorts?" Just two days ago, my kids put on a fashion show and set out a chair for me. They were walking around with pillows on their heads, a fake spider on a leash. They told me to rate them from 1 to 10 and said, "Don't be nicey-nice because we're your kids!"

Mel B.: Mine don't let me judge. They just put on a show, and then that's it. I'm not allowed to say anything. I'm like, "OK, then. Thank you!"

We spotlight some of the talent heading to Radio City Music Hall

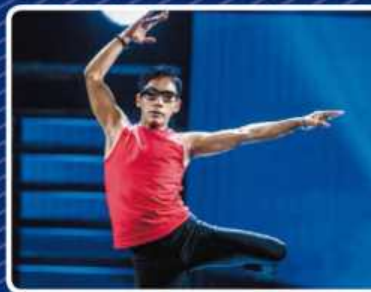

PIFF THE MAGIC

DRAGON After his second "How did he do that?" card trick—and an assist from his dog—the snarky magician (real name: John van der Put, 35) was sent to the live shows when guest judge Neil Patrick Harris hit his Golden Buzzer.

BENJAMIN YONATTAN

The 14-year-old blind dancer came to the U.S. from Guatemala at age 4. In the competition's first two rounds, he performed contemporary dances to One Republic's "I Lived" and Danny Gokey's "Tell Your Heart to Beat Again."

SHARON IRVING

The Chicago-based singer wowed the judges with her rendition of Hozier's "Take Me to Church," so much so that the 29-year-old was Mel B.'s Golden Buzzer selection.

THE CRAIG LEWIS

BAND Zuri Craig, 30, and Jeffrey Lewis, 33, received a standing O for their first song, James Brown's "It's a Man's Man's Man's World," and were sent straight to Radio City by guest judge Michael Bublé, who used his Golden Buzzer after they sang Mary J. Blige's "I'm Goin' Down."

IRA THE SINGING PUPPET

Ira Fennelbloom, 32, first serenaded Mel B. with Joe Cocker's "You Are So Beautiful," earning a "yes" from all of the judges—except Mel. In Round 2, he performed Marvin Gaye's "Let's Get It On" with his mom, Miriam, on guitar.

in Settlements

Simple Online
Claim Form
Takes 3-5

Class action settlements have been reached involving Cathode Ray Tubes ("CRTs"), a display device that was sold by itself or as the main component in TVs and computer monitors. The lawsuit claims that the Defendants fixed the prices of CRTs causing consumers to pay more for CRTs and products containing CRTs, such as TVs and computer monitors (collectively "CRT Products"). The Defendants deny Plaintiffs' allegations.

Who is included in the Settlements?

Individuals and businesses that:

- Purchased a CRT or a product containing a CRT, such as a TV or computer monitor, in the United States (except Illinois, Washington and Oregon) between March 1, 1995, and November 25, 2007;
- For their own use and not for resale.

Purchases made directly from a defendant or alleged co-conspirator are not included (see the list of defendants and alleged co-conspirators at www.CRTclaims.com or by calling 1-800- 649-0963).

What do the Settlements provide?

There are seven new Settlements totaling $541.75 million. Together with the two previously-approved settlements, the Settlement Fund is $576.75 million. Only individuals and businesses who purchased CRT Products in AZ, CA, FL, HI, IA, KS, ME, MI, MN, MS, NE, NV, NM, NY, NC, ND, SD, TN, VT, WV, WI, or the District of Columbia, are eligible to file a claim for money. HI, NE and NV have shorter claims periods. The purchase must have been made in one of the foregoing states, but you do not have to be a resident of one of these states. The Settlements release the injunctive relief claims of purchasers of CRT Products nationwide.

The amount of money you will receive depends on the type and quantity of CRT Products you purchased and the total number of claims made. Eligible individuals and businesses are expected to get a minimum payment of $25. Large purchasers could recover many thousands of dollars.

How can I get a payment?

Claim online or by mail by December 7, 2015. The simple online Claim Form only takes 3-5 minutes for most individuals.

What are my rights?

If you do nothing you will be bound by the Court's decisions. If you want to keep your right to sue the Defendants, you must exclude yourself from the Settlement Class by October 8, 2015. If you stay in the Settlement Class, you may object to the Settlements by October 8, 2015.

The Court will hold a hearing on November 13, 2015 at 10:00 a.m. to consider whether to approve the Settlements and a request for attorneys' fees plus reimbursement of litigation expenses and awards to Class Representatives. The total attorney fee request for all Plaintiffs' counsel shall not exceed one-third of the $576.75 million Settlement Fund. The hearing date may change so please check the website. You or your own lawyer may appear and speak at the hearing at your own expense.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

The truth is out there—really out there—when Fred Armisen, Bill Hader and Seth Meyers spoof the documentary genre in their new IFC series

BY ROB MOYNIHAN

The sounds of smooth, melodic harmonies echo through the cavernous backstage hallways of Inglewood, California's legendary Forum arena. Five vocalists dressed in vintage rags huddle together in a tight circle as if preparing to take the stage for a sold-out concert. But two familiar faces stand out in this band: Saturday Night Live veterans Fred Armisen, who has donned a mop-top wig and a retro Chicago White Sox jacket, and Bill Hader, sporting an epic mustache and long, wavy hair. The two comedians have transformed themselves into members of a fake '70s soft-rock group known as the Blue Jean Committee to film one of the six installments of their new IFC limited series Documentary Now!, which parodies the style and tone of famous nonfiction films.

"It's essentially a curated documentary series like PBS's American Masters," Hader says between takes. "But each one comes from a different era and is based off a different filmmaker and style, like Errol Morris or Vice."

Today's Blue Jean Committee episode is an homage to the acclaimed 2013 film History of the Eagles, which had the legendary rock band looking back on their glory days. Other episodes take their cues from 1975's Grey Gardens and 1922's Nanook of the North, the silent classic that explored Inuit life in the harsh conditions of northern Canada.

The idea was born out of a 2013 SNL sketch called "The History of Punk," in which Armisen portrayed an English rocker obsessed with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. "It was near the end of Bill and Fred's last season, and Bill mentioned that 'Punk' was the kind of show he always wanted to do:

really hyperactive [fake] documentaries that weren't too jokey," says Late Night host and former SNL head writer Seth Meyers, who penned "History of Punk" and wrote three Documentary Now! episodes. "[We thought] Fred and Bill playing these subjects would be interesting enough, and the comedy would just come out of those characters' worlds. We weren't necessarily going for big laughs."

Armisen, who writes and stars in IFC's sketch series Portlandia, insists the mimicry of the filmmaking style and the subject matter took priority over gut-busting humor. "I would rather it be confusing than funny," he explains. "I like the idea of someone turning this on and going, 'What is this?'"

But this is still a show that stars Fred Armisen and Bill Hader, so expect plenty of laughs, especially as the pair disappear into outrageous costumes and wigs. The men assume the roles of aging mother-and-daughter socialites in the premiere, the Grey Gardens spoof Sandy Passage, and Hader plays a senile 80-year-old cameraman who worked on the world's first documentary in the Nanook parody Kunuk Uncovered, a performance he calls his favorite of the bunch. "Obviously they're great comedians, but they're great actors here, too," Meyers says. "Over the course of the episodes, their range is so impressive."

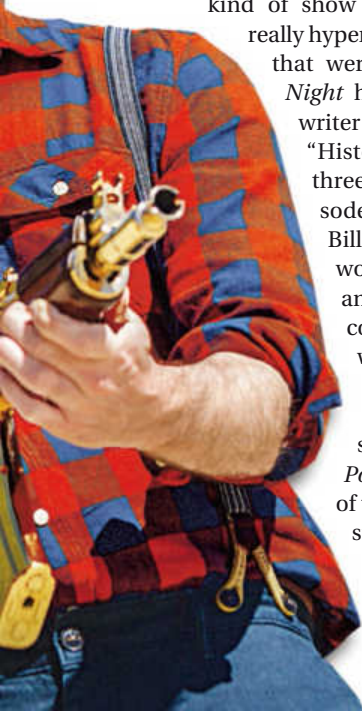

Throughout the run, the duo will be joined by a handful of guest stars, including Jack Black, current SNL cast member Aidy Bryant and Mad Men alum John Slattery. "Because we were asking them to play it very straight, we found that people were pretty game to get involved," Meyers says. Producers also enlisted Academy Award-winning actress Helen Mirren—a big fan of Armisen and Portlandia—as host to introduce the different documentaries.

In addition to scoring big names, the project was able to shoot on location. Armisen and Hader traveled to Mexico to film the Vice-inspired Dronez: The Hunt for El Chingon, in which they play journalists out to expose a dangerous drug kingpin. (Black is their whiskey-loving media mogul boss.) They flew to Iceland for an episode that examines a small-town festival celebrating American gangster Al Capone. Says Meyers, "Some of the surprise stars are the Icelandic actors."

Back on the Forum set with the Blue Jean Committee, Armisen and Hader keep the harmonies flowing for a good 10 minutes as the cameras roll on the band's backstage routine of singing the same three-word phrase over and over again: "Freewayyyyyy, riding along. Freewayyyyyy, riding along." "Four more minutes!" announces Hader, getting his vocally weary costars to finally crack a smile. It's almost a wrap for the Blue Jean Committee, who just a few nights earlier played an impromptu gig at Los Angeles's Ace Hotel and even recorded a handful of soft-rock songs in the studio. For Armisen, who is also Meyers's Late Night bandleader, Documentary Now! serves as another outlet for his unique brand of comedy and music.

"This is a little sidetrack and a hobby," he says, noting that, as of now, there are no plans to extend the series. "It's British-style," he says of the small number of episodes. "There's no ambition, no 'Let's see [how it does].' It's more about making something good and enjoying it."

DOCUMENTARY NOW! Series premiere, Thursday, Aug. 20, 10/9c, IFC

They're here. They're insincere. They're ready to flip a poker table. Meet the unlovable lushes of Hulu's The Hotwives of Las Vegas

Hot Messes

BY GREGORY E. MILLER

What happens in Vegas most definitely will not be staying in Vegas. Last summer, Hulu debuted The Hotwives of Orlando, an affectionate evisceration of Bravo's Real Housewives reality franchise. This year, the series revamps American Horror Story-style, moving to Nevada and employing (mostly) the same actresses to play (mostly) new characters in The Hotwives of Las Vegas. (Childrens Hospital's Erinn Hayes joins the cast for this round, replacing Kristen Schaal.) "Satire can get a little bit old, but I think we found a way to make it fresh," says one of the series' stars, Casey Wilson. "And Las Vegas is just so gross and amazing...no offense to anyone who lives in Vegas, though I guess it's hard not to take offense to that." Here's a primer on the ready-to-roll Hotwives.

IVANKA SILVERSAN

PLAYED BY Andrea Savage (Episodes)

WHO SHE IS Loosely inspired by Real Housewives of Beverly Hills' Yolanda Foster, Ivanka is an ambiguously European former model who's now the wife of a prestigious "bubble magician" (Paul Scheer) and "the proud mother of a baby model who's not yet a year old," Savage says.

GOD-GIVEN REICH Don't try to pinpoint Ivanka's accent. "It's a little all over the place," Savage admits. "How consistent the accent is depends on how much improvising I was doing at the time. But it does sound so German that, as I was forming the character, she started having some Nazi undertones."

TAGLINE "It's hard being perfect. Just kidding. It's easy for me."

PHENOMENON REED

PLAYED BY Tymberlee Hill (Marry Me)

WHO SHE IS A fan favorite from The Hotwives of Orlando, "Phe Phe"—an in-your-face lawyer, cake designer, Zumba instructor, foot model, CPA, aspiring taxidermist, fashion designer and television judge—has moved to Sin City to cash in on Vegas's higher show ratings.

FINDING PHE In the new setting, "Phe Phe is letting go of the drama," Hill says of her character, who tended to stir the pot among the ladies in Orlando last season. "She's trying to be a better person. It's not actually a better version of any human being. But it's her idea of better."

TAGLINE "I'm a phenomenon. Literally, that's my name."

FIRST LADY

PLAYED BY Angela Kinsey (The Office)

WHO SHE IS First Lady (whose actual name shall not be uttered) is the widow of the former mayor of the Vegas Strip. Just the Strip. "That comes with no power and no perks and no one recognizes it," Kinsey says. "But she conducts herself like she's the Jackie O of Vegas."

STRIP TEASE In one scene shot on location, Kinsey (as First Lady) welcomed real-life visitors to the strip with lines like "Have a Vegas day today!"—which yielded mixed results. "Some people were like, 'Well, I will have a Vegas day! Thank you very much!'" says Kinsey. "And then other people were like, 'Where's Dwight?'"

TAGLINE "I run this town! Along with actual, real, elected officials."

JENFER BEUDON

PLAYED BY Casey Wilson (Happy Endings)

WHO SHE IS “She’s just trash,” Wilson says. Jenfer—not a typo—is “nine-and-a-half-months pregnant” but claims she just conceived because her new hubby and baby daddy, Ace (Keegan-Michael Key), was up until very recently still in a relationship with First Lady.

BOOK SMART Jenfer is also missing the tippy-top of her right point finger. “She’s trying to raise awareness for all who are disabled in that way,” says Wilson. “She’s authoring The Loneliest Fingertip. It’s a children’s book.”

TAGLINE: “I wrote the book on being awesome. I just can’t read it.”

LEONA CARPEZE

PLAYED BY Dannah Phirman (MADtv)

WHO SHE IS An Italian single mother, Leona is finally learning to let go of her thirtysomething son...

MONEY MAKER ...which means more time to focus on running her business, a strip club. “So she’s an entrepreneur and a feminist,” Phirman says.

TAGLINE “Menopause? More like menostart your engines!”

DENISE FUNT

PLAYED BY Danielle Schneider (Marry Me)

WHO SHE IS A sad-sack divorcee with no friends and no one to fill up her “hug bucket.” “She was sort of inspired by Taylor Armstrong, from The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills,” notes Schneider, who cocreated the series with Phirman. “Like how Taylor was kind of always [saying], ‘I’m crying! I don’t know why I’m crying!’”

PARADOX LOST She may be emotionally fragile, but Denise is also freakishly strong. “Her physical flexibility will be on display. She’s like a spider monkey,” Schneider says. “I have the bruises to prove it!”

TAGLINE “Vegas is a gambling town, and I never bet on me.”

CALLIE SILVERSAN

PLAYED BY Erin Hayes (Childrens Hospital)

WHO SHE IS Because every group needs one, Callie is the resident Wiccan, à la former Beverly Hills housewife Carlton Gebbia. “She feels things deeply,” Hayes says.

BROTHER’S PEEPER Callie recently moved to Vegas so she could be closer to her brother, Ivanka’s husband, for whom she has inappropriate feelings. Say what? “Paul’s character is so passive, and both of these women want to own him,” explains Hayes, who notes that at one point all three end up in a bathtub together. “It’s really creepy.”

TAGLINE “I’m a sexy witch, like the ones from The Craft.”

THE HOTWIVES OF LAS VEGAS, Season premiere, Tuesday, Aug. 18, Hulu

THERE'S BAD. THERE'S evil. There's utterly contemptible. And then there's Theresa Donovan. The hilarious, pint-size hellcat of NBC's Days of Our Lives—played with loads of sex, sass and sarcasm by Jen Lilley—showed up in Salem two years ago with a rap sheet three blocks long. Theresa's move to this sweet Middle America burg was part of her parole agreement, a last-ditch attempt to set the young conniver on the straight and narrow. And the poor townsfolk have been paying for it ever since.

"Theresa is an unapologetic mess," Lilley says with a laugh. "I knew I was in for a wild ride when I heard the list of crimes she had committed even before she hit the screen, which included grand theft auto, cocaine possession and two cases of assault and battery. The latter is particularly amazing, seeing as I'm 5'2" and 100 pounds wet."

Despite her horrifying résumé, Theresa landed a job at Salem University Hospital (in the public relations department!) and rarely did a day go by that this angel-faced demon wasn't embezzling, blackmailing or breaking and entering. Then she met her match in wealthy, handsome Brady Black (Eric Martsolf), and the two began the most debauched, coked-up, booze-fueled romance daytime drama has ever seen. Naturally, Theresa made sure they got married in Vegas in a ceremony blotto Brady couldn't remember the next day.

"Jen is fearless," Martsolf says. "She risks being unlikable, especially to that part of our audience that's the most conservative. But in risking it all, she's been embraced in a huge way." Not even Theresa's most inexcusable act—hitting Brady's dad, John (Drake Hogestyn), on the head with a fireplace poker and putting him in a coma, then pinning the crime on Brady—seemed to shake that viewer devotion.

Lilley's secret weapon? "I play everything balls-to-the-wall," she says. "My worry is not pushing the audience too far. I worry about not being full-on committed in every moment, which is not always easy in the crazy world of soaps. I had a storyline where Theresa got pregnant and had her fetus stolen. All I could say was, 'Bring it on! I know this is goofy, but I'm going down in soap glory!'"

A deeply committed Christian, Lilley has no problem putting all this vice on TV, unlike some religious actors. "I knew exactly what I was getting into when I signed with Days, that there would be a lot of intense sex and that Theresa was a drugging, drinking whore, basically. I really felt called to play this role. I prayed on it and knew I had to accept the part because there are so many girls out there like Theresa, and so many people in general, who are lost and feel irredeemable. My God tells me that no one is irredeemable and that everyone's story is worth telling."

Lilley's own story might have turned out differently if she'd stuck to her first passion, tectonics. "I have a degree in environmental science from the University of Virginia," she says, "which means I could star in one of those Syfy movies about supervolcanoes and be the technical consultant." Her first showbiz gig came in 2007 as a bathing-suit model on Hannah Montana. Guest roles followed on Criminal Minds and Castle. Then, for several months, Lilley replaced an ailing Kirsten Storms as dippy heroine Maxie Jones on General Hospital. That brought her to the attention of the Days execs.

When not riding high in the suds world, Lilley plays it low-key at home. She's been married eight years to truck driver Jason Wayne, who delivers chips for Frito-Lay. "Jason is my blue-collar guy, my rock," she says. "He's the one who keeps me normal, and I really need that. I can't stand it when actors think they're better than others just because we get paid to play dress-up. It's the stupidest thing."

Bachelor Padding

BACHELOR IN PARADISE 8/7c, ABC

For most Americans, summer has been in full swing awhile. But to members of Bachelor Nation—the self-dubbed superfans of ABC's hit matchmaking franchise—the season has only just begun, now that Bachelor in Paradise is finally underway. Luckily, the tequila-soaked series, which invites Bachelor and Bachelorette alums to don their swimsuits in steamy Sayulita, Mexico, and take another crack at romance, has wasted no time heating up. "It was odd how quickly things progressed," host Chris Harrison says. "It took hours, not even days, for relationships and love triangles to form and for people to start staking their claims."

With good reason: Every episode, any contestant who comes up empty-handed at the rose ceremony is sent home immediately and replaced by a new arrival. "You could tell [which ones] had just stepped off the plane, because they hadn't acclimated to the weather yet," Harrison says. "It looked like a fire hose had been turned on them."

Among the standouts so far in this wet-and-wild round of musical dating? Former Playboy model Jade Roper ("A lot of guys came here specifically to meet her," Harrison says) and Ashley "Onion Girl" Salter, the oddball from Chris Soules's recently wrapped season who is prone to hilariously nonsensical rambling. "There's interest in her, but also confusion," says Harrison. "It's a little bit like talking to Dory in Finding Nemo, where she'll all of a sudden be distracted by a shiny object." Then there are the wizened thirtysomething veterans: Tenley Molzahn, originally a Season 14 Jake Pavelka cast-off, and Clare Crawley, who appeared last year on the first edition of Paradise. Says Harrison, "[Clare] is here to prove that she's not the emotional, dramatic person she came off as."

If all goes according to plan, that won't happen. While it's lovely enough to watch folks find their soul mates—"The process works, and there will be couples coming out of this," Harrison promises—the real point here is to submit to the unapologetically frothy fun. "This is don't-think-too-hard TV that should be enjoyed with a box of wine and cheap chocolates," Harrison says. "We are definitely in on the joke." —Ingela Ratledge

"Watt has been the public face of this team," says supervising producer Rodgers

High Wattage

HARD KNOCKS Season premiere, 10/9c, HBO

Saddle up! HBO's NFL documentary series Hard Knocks rolls in to the Lone Star State this season for an inside look at the Houston Texans training camp. "They say everything is bigger in Texas," says NFL Films supervising producer Ken Rodgers. "The same is going to be true for Hard Knocks this year, because there are some larger-than-life characters who really have the possibility of making a great series."

One of the characters who will certainly make a big impact is the league's reigning Defensive Player of the Year, J.J. Watt. The 288-pound defensive end not only recorded 20 sacks last season, but he also lined up on offense and caught three passes for touchdowns. "The J.J. Watt you see is as personable and intense in real life as he is on television," Rodgers says. "He has a motor physically, mentally and emotionally to keep pushing harder to a level that I haven't seen in many players. It's an infectious attitude to excel."

While the Texans may dominate on defense, questions surround their offense, specifically the starting quarterback. After rotating through four different players at that position last season, second-year head coach Bill O'Brien will be forced to choose between Brian Hoyer and Ryan Mallett by opening day. "We don't know when that decision is coming," Rodgers says. The coaches must also fill an offensive hole created by the departure of veteran wide receiver Andre Johnson, who signed with the rival Indianapolis Colts during the off-season. "[The Texans have] a deep bench, and that battle for who makes the team at wide receiver is going to be an all-out war until the final week," Rodgers adds.

The Hard Knocks producers also face their own battle: In the month leading up to the start of the regular season in September, Rodgers and his team sift through more than 300 hours of footage to put together one hour-long episode each week. "So much of training camp is repetition," Rodgers says. "It's a very serious business, like high school and college combined. It's very intense." Game on. —Rob Moynihan

To some, sunglasses are a fashion accessory...

But When Driving, These Sunglasses May Save Your Life!

Drivers' Alert: Driving can expose you to more dangerous glare than any sunny day at the beach can... do you know how to protect yourself?

The sun rises and sets at peak travel periods, during the early morning and afternoon rush hours and many drivers find themselves temporarily blinded while driving directly into the glare of the sun. Deadly accidents are regularly caused by such blinding glare with danger arising from reflected light off another vehicle, the pavement, or even from waxed and oily windshields that can make matters worse. Early morning dew can exacerbate this situation. Yet, motorists struggle on despite being blinded by the sun's glare that can cause countless accidents every year.

Not all sunglasses are created equal. Protecting your eyes is serious business. With all the fancy fashion frames out there it can be easy to overlook what really matters—the lenses. So we did our research and looked to the very best in optic innovation and technology.

Sometimes it does take a rocket scientist. A NASA rocket scientist.

Some ordinary sunglasses can obscure your vision by exposing your eyes to harmful UV rays, blue light, and reflective glare. They can also darken useful vision-enhancing light. But now, independent research conducted by scientists from NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory has brought forth

Eagle Eyes® Lens

Slip on a pair of Eagle Eyes® and everything instantly appears more vivid and sharp. You'll immediately notice that your eyes are more comfortable and relaxed and you'll feel no need to squint. The scientifically designed sunglasses are not just fashion accessories—they are necessary to protect your eyes from those harmful rays produced by the sun during peak driving times.

ground-breaking technology to help protect human eyesight from the harmful effects of solar radiation light. This superior lens technology was first discovered when NASA scientists looked to nature for a means to superior eye protection—specifically, by studying the eyes of eagles, known for their extreme visual acuity. This discovery resulted in what is now known as Eagle Eyes®.

The Only Sunglass Technology Certified by the Space Foundation for UV and Blue-Light Eye Protection.

Eagle Eyes® features the most advanced eye protection technology ever created. The TriLenium® Lens Technology offers triple-filter polarization to block 99.9% UVA and UVB—plus the added benefit of blue-light eye protection. Eagle Eyes® is the only optic technology that has earned official recognition from the Space Certification Program for this remarkable technology. Now, that's proven science-based protection.

Hazards of Work

KEVIN FROM WORK Series premiere, 8/7c, ABC Family

A call from human resources is the least of the problems dogging the hapless employee at the center of ABC Family's new comedy Kevin From Work. Canadian Noah Reid stars as the titular character, a nice, normal guy with a nice, normal job as a food and beverage distributor who makes an abnormally bad mistake: He puts pen to paper and sends an ill-advised note to his office crush, Audrey (Paige Spara). "He's been pining for her for years," explains executive producer Barbara Adler (How I Met Your Mother). "He thinks he is leaving the country for a new job, so with the emotional freedom of thinking he's never going to see this woman again—and getting drunk—he writes her a letter telling her how he feels and mails it. And then that other job falls through."

Stuck having to face the fallout of his confessional missive, Kevin soon finds out that maybe he didn't do the dumbest thing ever. Audrey doesn't shut him down, Adler reveals, while also noting that these two won't simply fall into each other's arms either.

"She's in another relationship," she says. "Still, when she reads Kevin's heartfelt thoughts, it touches her. She's a sweet girl, so it's complicated."

Adding to the messiness will be Kevin's and Audrey's various friends and coworkers, who will try (and mostly fail) to help them make sense of their new dynamic while also giving the show other storylines so it won't just follow the central couple in all their will-they-or-won't-they glory. "What I really wanted to do in developing this was to not make it, 'Oh, it's a romance' every week," Adler says. "I know that gets people interested, but that appetite can be sated quickly if you don't do something else."

Still, Adler realizes that her charming leading man is one of the show's biggest draws. "When I saw Noah's audition, I was blown away," she gushes. "A guy who likes a girl who doesn't like him back can come off as wimpy. There is none of that in his performance. He is likable and confident—not pathetic!" "I actually am Amantha," says Spencer (with Vartan) of her similarities to her character

Sister's Habit

RECTIFY Season finale, 10/9c, SundanceTV

Amantha Holden (Abigail Spencer) was just 12 years old when her big brother Daniel (Aden Young) was convicted of the rape and murder of his girlfriend and sentenced to death. Amantha spent the next two decades trying to find a way to exonerate him from a crime she knew he didn't commit. She finally achieved her goal in the emotionally wrenching series's pilot, but life on the outside hasn't been easy for the siblings.

"This season on Rectify, we talked a lot about how you would think Daniel's being released would be this beautiful reawakening," says Spencer, who is also currently starring on HBO's True Detective. "Instead, it just sowed more chaos and disparity. It made everyone ask, 'What is my life for?'"

Amantha was especially questioning. The quest to free Daniel had become her entire identity, even extending to her romantic life. The only real relationship she's had was with Jon Stern (Luke Kirby), the lawyer who took up Daniel's appeal. But that, too, disintegrated, leading to a one-night stand with a shipping-company consultant (Michael Vartan).

The hits keep coming in tonight's season finale, as Daniel finally leaves home and heads to Tennessee. His banishment was a condition of the deal made with the DA at the end of last season to avoid a retrial: He pleads guilty to the murder but doesn't have to serve any more prison time. He just has to leave Georgia forever—and say goodbye to the sister who spent her life fighting for his innocence.

With that chapter of the Holden saga seemingly at an end, where does this leave Amantha? "She has to figure out her life outside of Daniel and Jon," Spencer says. But the biggest question: What does Amantha really want?

"She doesn't know yet," Spencer says with a laugh. "But it's cool, because you will see someone not only fighting to change but succeeding." —Oriana Schwindt

KATIE HOLMES

RAY DONOVAN Sunday, 9/8c, Showtime

SHE PLAYS Ray Donovan's Paige Finney, a ruthless sports agent so determined to build a football stadium in L.A. and bring the city an NFL team that she shunts the governor of California to make sure it happens. "Paige is one complicated businesswoman," Holmes says. "Just when you think you know her, she reveals another side...and another and another." Though it was Paige's megamogul daddy, Andrew (Ian McShane), who hired Ray (Liev Schreiber) to do the family's dirty work, Paige has sneakily worked a side deal with the Hollywood fixer to make her NFL dreams come true—for a tasty piece of the pie, of course. It's all part of her revenge plan. Prone to crippling migraines, "Paige is fueled by the rage she feels over a secret involving her father," executive producer David Hollander says. That secret is revealed in this week's episode—and it's freaky-deaky indeed!

WHERE YOU'VE SEEN HER Aside from every tabloid in the world? Holmes (aka the third ex-Mrs. Tom Cruise) was still acting in high school musicals in her hometown of Toledo, Ohio, when she landed the part that would make her an instant star—sweetheart tomboy Joey Potter on Dawson's Creek. Other top roles include Bruce Wayne's gal pal Rachel Dawes in Batman Begins and Jackie Kennedy in the controversial Reel miniseries The Kennedys.

WHY WE LOVE HER It's not that Holmes hasn't played fast and loose before—she was quite a trip as Greg Kinnear's slutty fiancée in The Gift—but she is on fire as Paige, delivering a performance that's toxic and unnerving one moment, achingly poignant the next. It just might bring her some Emmy and Golden Globe love. Was Holmes looking to shake up her image this way? "Not necessarily," she says. "I believe things come to you when you're ready for them." And she was ready. "I've been a huge Ray Donovan fan since the show started. It's a window into the dark side of Hollywood that makes you wonder, 'Wow, are people really like this?' The characters are incredible—not that you'd want to have any of them over for dinner."

GIRL WITH THE GRILL While Paige is often in need of a hairbrush ("That's a little hint of her wild side," Holmes says), the character is always immaculately, elegantly dressed. So what's with the braces on her teeth? According to Hollander, the gangsta grill isn't intended to show Paige's toughness but rather her childlike vulnerability. "That was my biggest challenge," Holmes says with a laugh. "I used a retainer, and it was always slipping out when I'd say my lines. I ruined a lot of good takes." —Michael Logan

Lucci will be honored as a Disney Legend at the studio's D23 Expo in Anaheim on August 14

Devious Diva

DEVIOUS MAIDS 9/8c, Lifetime

NO ONE HAD more sex—or husbands—than Susan Lucci's Erica Kane during the actress's 41-year run on All My Children. But the star's current alter ego, self-medicating socialite Genevieve Delatour on Devious Maids, is quickly catching up. After six marriages and flings with her pool boy and tennis coach, Genevieve has allowed her latest lover, mama's boy Christopher Neff (John O'Hurley), to move into her mansion. La Lucci previews the disaster to come. —Michael Logan Romances tend to end badly—and are often deadly—on Devious Maids. Is there any real hope for Genevieve and Dr. Neff? Well, not after she finds out from his maid that he's only pretending to be broke. What self-respecting Beverly Hills lady looking for husband No. 7 would be mad because she found a guy with money? Only Genevieve. She is not happy about being duped. What else doesn't she know about him?

Plus, Christopher clashed with her longtime maid, Zoila (Judy Reyes), who now has to work elsewhere. Genevieve is devastated by that! Even though she says horrible things to Zoila, like "Friends stick together through thick and thin. Obviously, you're the thick and I'm the thin," they are much more like sisters than maid and boss. With a little Lucy and Ethel thrown in.

We must discuss Genevieve's sex tape, the one with the highly acrobatic position known as "The Blooming Orchid." When the cast got together to read that episode, I couldn't make eye contact with anyone or I'd never have gotten through it. People at the studio will pass me in the hall and go, "Really? The Blooming Orchid?" I will never hear the end of it [Laughs].

Genevieve and Dr. Neff do some pretty loud lovemaking, which Zoila can hear through the wall. How was it recording all those hilarious moans and groans? Quite the challenge. I thought it'd just be a few "oohs" and "aahs," but producer David Warren handed me three pages of sex sounds to record. [Laughs] I didn't know there were that many!

Detectorists Series premiere

Acorn A group of wacky metal-detecting enthusiasts combs England for hidden treasure in this kooky six-episode Britcom.

Cake Wars Season finale

8/7c, Food Network Four finalists make Girl Scout cookie-themed cakes for the Girl Scouts of America, who—if the new gluten-free Trios are any indication—will not be hard to please.

Tashi and the Monk

8/7c, HBO This sweet doc follows Lobsang Phuntsok, a Buddhist monk who founded a safe haven for orphaned children in the Himalayas, as he welcomes a new arrival: the troubled 5-year-old Tashi.

Gator Boys

9/8c, Animal Planet Paul continues his valiant struggle to save the Everglades Outpost even after a gator mistakes Jimmy for lunch.

My Son's Face Won't Stop Growing

10/9c, Discovery Life The heartrending special documents the brave struggle of a U.K. family whose youngest son suffers from CLOVES Syndrome, a 1-in-100-million disease that is disfiguring and potentially life-threatening.

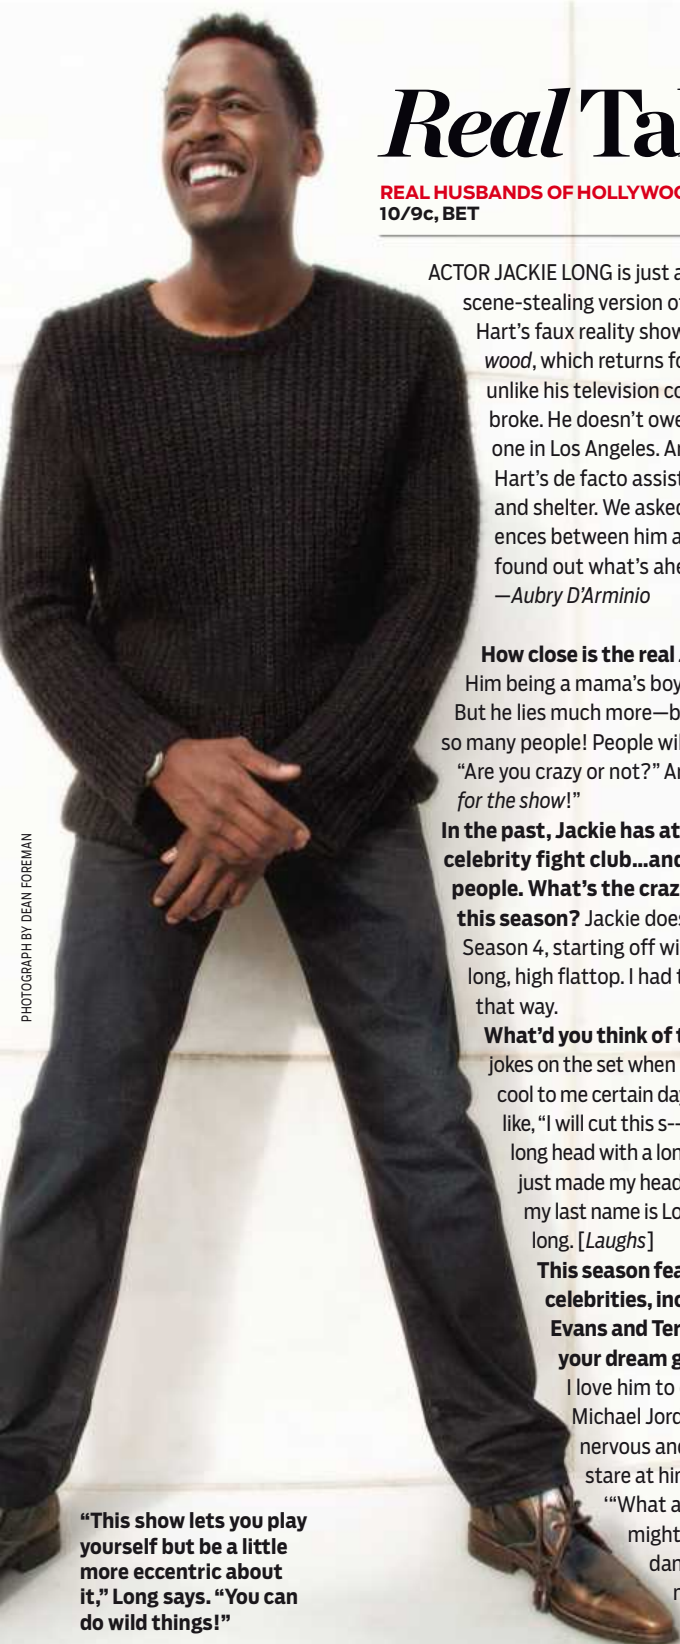

The Whispers

10/9c, ABC Wes has a plan: He convinces the president that rounding up all the kids in one place will weaken Drill, not just those in charge of looking after them.

REAL HUSBANDS OF HOLLYWOOD Season premiere, 10/9c, BET

ACTOR JACKIE LONG is just as funny as the outlandish, scene-stealing version of himself he plays on Kevin Hart's faux reality show, Real Husbands of Hollywood, which returns for Season 4 tonight. But unlike his television counterpart, Long isn't broke. He doesn't owe money to almost everyone in Los Angeles. And no, he doesn't act as Hart's de facto assistant in exchange for food and shelter. We asked Long about other differences between him and his "character" and found out what's ahead for the Husbands. —Aubry D'Arminio

How close is the real Jackie to the TV Jackie?

Him being a mama's boy is real, real close to me. But he lies much more—because he owes things to so many people! People will always look at me like "Are you crazy or not?" And I'm like, "Yeah, I did that for the show!"

In the past, Jackie has attended an underground celebrity fight club...and partied with circus people. What's the craziest thing Jackie does this season? Jackie does a lot of crazy things in Season 4, starting off with his hair. He grows a real long, high flat-top. I had to grow my own damn hair that way.

What'd you think of the new look? It was all jokes on the set when I did it. It ended up looking cool to me certain days, and certain days I was like, "I will cut this s---t off!" I've already got a long head with a long face and a long chin, so it just made my head look even more long, and my last name is Long, so everything was very long. [Laughs]

This season features cameos from many celebrities, including Paula Abdul, Faith Evans and Terry Crews. Who would be your dream guest star? Eddie Murphy. I love him to death. And I want to meet Michael Jordan. I think I'd be a little nervous and goofed out. I might just stare at him for 20 hours until he said, "What are you staring at?" And I might say, "You're Michael Jordan. I ain't never seen you, man, and I didn't know your head was this shiny!"

"This show lets you play yourself but be a little more eccentric about it," Long says. "You can do wild things!"

Man Fire Food 8/7c, Cooking Channel Who says you can't find any good barbecue in New York City? Roger visits Hometown Bar-B-Que in Brooklyn, which adds an ethnic kick to its dishes.

Hack My Life Season premiere

9/8c, truTV Hosts Kevin Pereira and Brooke Van Poppelen are back to teach us all how to avoid looking like a pig while eating ribs (plus several other life-saving tips).

The Haves and the Have Nots 9/8c, OWN The Harrington and Cryer families unite in an attempt to get the DA to throw out Wyatt Cryer's confession that he committed vehicular homicide.

Worst.Post.Ever.: With Frankie Grande 9/8c, Oxygen Former Big Brother contestant (and brother of singer Ariana) Frankie Grande hosts this half-hour special that will bring you up to speed on what you're missing on social media.

Zoo 9/8c, CBS The rats that are washing up on the coast of Massachusetts aren't just regular vermin—they're blood-thirsty little buggers that can strip a man of his flesh in a disturbingly quick fashion.

Hollywood Game Night 10/9c, NBC David Giuntoli looks to make a regular Joe's life less Grimm by helping him win some cash alongside The Night Shift's Scott Wolf and 24 alum Mary-Lynn Rajs-kub.

FLIPPING OUT Season finale, 9/8c, Bravo

MORE THAN EVER before, Season 8 of Flipping Out—the Bravo docuseries that follows mercurial Los Angeles-based real estate and design expert Jeff Lewis—has run the gamut from high to low, and from the sublime to the ridiculous. (See: the heartrending death of his beloved cat Stewie...and a storyline about faulty plumbing that brought bathroom humor to the forefront.) Tonight's season finale will be no exception to that trend, as Jeff's executive assistant, Jenni Pulos, films a music video for her kids' rap song "Poo in the Potty," and then later in the episode, Jeff and his longtime partner, Gage Edward, meet the surrogate who will hopefully carry their child. Here, Lewis offers his take on the emotional roller coaster. —Ingela Ratledge

Now that Jenni is the star of a rap video, has her ego spiraled out of control?

"Poo in the Potty" is gonna go global! Jenni does tend to think things are bigger than they are. She gets recognized one day in a mall and it's all over—I have to bring her back down to earth.

This season, your bond with Gage was tested, as was the relationship between Gage and your housekeeper, Zoila Chavez. What was at the root of it?

We all have our challenges. Gage and I aren't just living together but working together all day long. The difference this season is how I dealt with it. At 45 years old, I'm finally becoming an adult. Gage and Zoila fight about the stupidest things. There's always been a power struggle between them. They're both trying to assert control.

How did it feel to come face-to-face with your future surrogate?

I was so afraid that I would screw it up. It's like a date, but it's also a job interview. My biggest fear was that she would Google scenes from the show and not want to work with us.

You're known for being a perfectionist. If she gets pregnant, are you going to micromanage the process?

I'm confident that she's going to take very good care of our baby. But will I be stressed? Yeah. That poor girl doesn't know what she's in for. I can't control her diet, but I can certainly make suggestions. And for whatever reason, I have this phobia about her having sex with her husband too close to the delivery. I don't want our baby to see that!

GETTING PUNK'D

STEAMPUNK'D Series premiere, 10/9c, GSN

GET OUT YOUR bifocals and tighten up that corset—you're about to get steamed! Fashion guru and daytime chatterbox Jeannie Mai (The Real) hosts Steampunk'd, a new design competition series inspired by the Victorian-era style movement that's sweeping fashion, technology and sci-fi fan conventions around the globe.

"Steampunk can be exotic, eerie or whimsical as it embraces life as it was at the turn of the 20th century," Mai (center) says. "If it didn't exist then, it doesn't exist in the steampunk culture."

Ten artists will vie for $100,000 in an eight-episode battle to hand-craft ordinary objects and scraps of junk into entire rooms for an English manor house—minus electricity and other modern conveniences, of course. "The creativity of the contestants is staggering," Mai says. "It'll shock anyone who can't get through life without a cell phone and GPS!" —Michael Logan

Dome Is Where the Heart Is

UNDER THE DOME 10/9c, CBS

Tonight's episode "takes the Eva-Barbie-Julia triangle to a new level," exec producer Schlattmann says

Talk about being torn between two lovers! Ever since the folks of Chester's Mill emerged from their yearlong cocoon at the beginning of Season 3, Cupid has had a bit of a multiple personality when it comes to local hero Barbie (Mike Vogel). Convinced that the supposed death of girlfriend Julia (Rachelle Lefevre) and the implanted memories of his faux-mance with Aktaion Energy Corp. lackey Eva (Kylie Bunbury) were real, Barbie has found himself emotionally ricocheting between his ex and the newbie he thinks is his soul mate.

"Eva accepts his darkness, which was something he always hid from Julia," says executive producer Tim Schlattmann, who adds that Eva's allegiance to mysterious newcomer Christine Price (Marg Helgenberger) makes things even trickier. "She has been taken over by Christine and her followers, the Kinship," he explains of the mind games that have been played on both Barbie and the previously good-intentioned Eva. "She is as much a pawn in it all as he is." But why? And does this mean fans should give up hope for a Barbie-Julia reunion? "Now that Julia has become more of a realist, she and Barbie are going to have to deal with the fact that they have not known each other for very long, and that could mean realizing they're not meant for each other after all," Schlattmann says. "But Julia won't give up on him without a fight!"

And not just some sort of catfight, either: With Eva now carrying Barbie's baby (a child destined to one day rule the Kinship), half the town under the influence of that freaky glowing goo and the head of Aktaion, Hektor Martin (Eriq LaSalle), entering the dome with soldiers, Chester's Mill could be in for a battle royal. "The fate of the citizens and the dome will be decided this season," Schlattmann says. "Both sides of this war—the Kinship and the Resistance—will suffer some brutal losses." —Damian Holbrook

Show them the money: his sister, mom and uncle all rely on Cam (Usher, second from right)

SIGNS OF REMORSE

SURVIVOR'S REMORSE Season premiere, Saturday, 9:30/8:30c, Starz

LIFE IS NOT all fun and (basketball) games as Starz's dramedy Survivor's Remorse returns after a successful rookie season. Cam Calloway (Jessie T. Usher) is now the face of the franchise for his fictional Atlanta hoops team, but, says showrunner Mike O'Malley, "What happens to a person and what happens to the family when they have the pressure of making money and then delivering for a city? What's it like to be the golden goose?"

The season premiere finds Cam balking at some off-court obligations that come with his lucrative contract. And while he can work on perfecting his free throws, it's harder to manage the freeloaders in his new house: mom Cassie (Tichina Arnold), sister M-Chuck (Erica Ash) and uncle Julius (Mike Epps). "They all rely on him, and he begins to feel incredible pride that he's been able to provide," O'Malley says, but when Cam tells them "how to spend the money he's given them, that doesn't always jibe very well." They hit back—sometimes literally—in ways Cam doesn't anticipate. Cousin Reggie (RonReaco Lee), who is also Cam's manager, backs off on defense. "You'll see Reggie having to loosen the reins, allow Cam to be his own man, make some mistakes," Lee says.

While Cam's got game, Reggie wants to build his brand and expand their empire along the lines of LeBron James, who is an executive producer on the show. The Cleveland Cavaliers superstar appears as himself in the season's ninth episode.

Cam even meets someone he thinks is the love of his life, which Lee contends is "long overdue." But can this nurse (Meagan Tandy), whom Cam meets while getting an X-ray, stick around? "The Calloways are a tough bunch," Lee says. "She's got to be able to deal with them."

No easy feat. O'Malley views the series, which gets a four-episode boost to 10 for Season 2, as being "a fly on the wall of a professional athlete. As people change under this spotlight of fame, it's usually family members that are reminding you of who you were. That can be a good thing and that can be a bad thing." —Karen Rosen

Caught on Video

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL Weekdays, CBS

STEFFY FORRESTER DID a bad, bad thing. The glam fashion-house president of The Bold and the Beautiful—played by Jacqueline MacInnes Wood—killed her cousin Aly (Ashlyn Pearce) with a tire iron when the mentally ill youngster attacked her with a rock on a foggy stretch of the Pacific Coast Highway. Dazed and confused, Steffy told the police that Aly fell and hit her head, but on August 14, she finds out Ivy (Ashleigh Brewer) captured the whole damn thing on her cell phone. Wood gave us the dire dish.

So, how's it feel playing a killer? When I first heard about it, I was in major shock, of course. Then I started thinking about how everything bad happens to Steffy and that it makes sense that she's a murderer now. It's kind of perfect, really.

Aly was hugely popular. Did you worry the fans would hate Steffy? I'm used to it. When my character is busy being a home wrecker, the audience is like, "We detest Steffy and everything about her, including her clothes." But I am 100 percent behind my character because she killed Aly in self-defense, and I'd say probably 90 percent of our fans on social media are seeing it my way. Even my haters!

Does Steffy freak when she learns there's visual evidence of the incident? Not in the way you'd think. Steffy's wondering, "Why is there video?" Think about it. Ivy is driving down the road and comes across her best friend, Aly, attacking Steffy, and instead of trying to stop the fight she records it? Who does that?

Plus, Ivy's been withholding the evidence, which means she could be in more hot water than Steffy, right? It gets even crazier than that. Ivy will share the video with Steffy's brother Thomas and promises to not go to the police if he makes sure she's the new face of Forrester Creations. So, basically, she's willing to hide the truth in order to be a model. [Laughs] Listen, if Steffy had another tire iron right now, she'd be using it on Ivy!

Groucho Marx Marathon Friday, Aug. 14, 6am/5c, TCM Hello, I must be going! Grab some Animal Crackers and settle down for a little Monkey Business as the classic-movie channel airs 14 Marx films, plus his wild 1969 interview on The Dick Cavett Show.

Doc McStuffins Friday, Aug. 14, 9am/8c, Disney Channel

The hit preschool toon teams with the ASPCA on a multi-episode arc, "Doc McStuffins: Pet Vet," which finds the little medic opening up a veterinary practice in her backyard so she can treat stuffed animals. Adorbs!

General Hospital Friday, Aug. 14, ABC A string of mob attacks is rocking Port Charles, and Sonny Corinthos (Maurice Benard) swears he's not behind it. Then who is? Could a mysterious new godfather be hiding in plain sight?

Valerie's Home Cooking Sunday, Aug. 16, 10:30am/9:30c, Food Network It may be hot in Cleveland, but it's even hotter in Valerie Bertinelli's kitchen when she invites Betty White, Jane Leeves and Wendie Malick over for a spicy gab session and a delicious plate of Quiche Valerie. We're there!

BEAUTY CALL

TAKE A PAIGE FROM HER BOOK

Being a head-turning beauty and an undercover DEA agent isn't normally the best mix. But on Graceland, Paige Arkin (Serinda Swan) uses a Cali-girl vibe to keep her job covert. "Part of her cover is living in a beach house, surfing and being outdoorsy," says Laurie Cocheo, the USA drama's key makeup artist. "Her look has to be bronzy and fresh."

"I brush this bronzer under her cheekbones to contour, then across the bridge of her nose and along her forehead and temples to give her that sun-kissed look," Cocheo says.

"Serinda swears by this brand," Cocheo says. "She calls it her 'face crack' because she can't live without it." One of Swan's top picks from the line is the vitamin- and antioxidant-packed serum, which firms and brightens skin.

Answers to puzzle of July 27

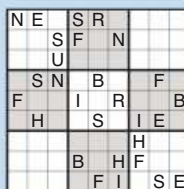

SUDOKU

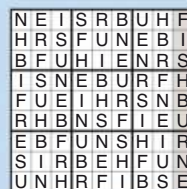

The goal of Sudoku is to fill in every empty box with one of nine letters. Each letter can appear only once in each horizontal row, as well as in every vertical column and in each of the 3x3 grids. Each finished puzzle will contain the spelling of a TV star, character, setting or show. Last issue's puzzle, about the actor who plays Dre's father on black-ish, contained the letters B E F H I N R S and U. The finished grid spelled out Fishburne.

Tim Robbins's HBO comedy is part of this issue's puzzle at left. The puzzle uses the letters B C E H I K N R and T.

LAST ISSUE'S SOLUTION

HOROSCOPE

BY THE ASTROTWINS, TALI AND OPHIRA EDUT

Leo (July 24–Aug. 23)

Although August is an active, exciting month, part of you is ready to settle down and be productive too. Enjoy celebrating some milestones, but look forward and focus on missions that will make you some bank. IF YOUR BIRTHDAY IS IN THE NEXT TWO WEEKS: While you love the fame and acclaim, where is it actually taking you? Time to plan, budget and think ahead. That way, your efforts will build a lasting legacy.

Viola Davis
AUGUST 11, 1965

Virgo (Aug. 24–Sept. 23)

CHANDRA WILSON 8/27/1969

Lucky Jupiter zips into Virgo for a year, helping you take bigger gambles in the name of growth. When in doubt, take the route that makes your soul sing—even if it isn't the most practical one.

Libra (Sept. 24–Oct. 23)

LIEV SCHREIBER 10/4/1967

Surrender, Libra! You like things done "just so," but over the next year, you have to go with the flow more. Love may require sacrifices, too. Know your bottom line when compromising so you don't become resentful.

Scorpio (Oct. 24–Nov. 22)

GABRIELLE UNION 10/29/1972

There's always another path. Instead of thinking a situation can work out only by going about it one specific way, consider less obvious options. Not everything is as inflexible as you might imagine.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23–Dec. 21)

TYRA BANKS 12/4/1973

You will climb the career ladder quickly over the coming 13 months. The question is, will you play by the old-school standards or use unorthodox methods to get ahead? Best bet: Find a happy medium.

Capricorn (Dec. 22–Jan. 20)

GRANT GUSTIN 1/14/1990

You're on a mission to build relationships and make more contacts, and that's a good thing. But remember to stay out of the shark tank. Join forces with people who follow a code of honor.

Aquarius (Jan. 21–Feb. 19)

RACHELLE LEFEVRE 2/1/1979

You'll want to save the final rose for someone special. Don't worry, though. Promising relationships will start popping up. By this time in 2016, you could be saying yes to a dress, tux or a profitable business merger.

Pisces (Feb. 20–March 20)

ROB LOWE 3/17/1964

Finding the One will become an obsession now. Already attached? Your most important relationships are going through a growth spurt. Find new ways to support each other's independent interests.

Aries (March 21–April 20)

NATHAN FILLION 3/27/1971

Time to bring some law and order into your life. Declutter and come up with a schedule. When you start projects from an organized place, you won't get discouraged, distracted or overwhelmed.

Taurus (April 21–May 21)

DWAYNE JOHNSON 5/2/1972

Jupiter heads into your house of fame, romance and creativity for a year, giving you American Idol status. Make sure you have a happy home base when you need to escape the pressure of all that attention!

Gemini (May 22–June 21)

JULIANNA MARGULIES 6/8/1966

Ready for a "fuller house"? With expansive Jupiter moving through your domestic zone for a year, new roomies or relatives could join you under your roof. Consider reorganizing to free up some space!

Cancer (June 22–July 23)

JIM GAFFIGAN 7/7/1966

Come on out of that shell. Your social life gets a star-powered boost, making you feel more extroverted than you have felt in over a decade. It's been a while, so remember to socialize with good influences!

for exposing the truth...about Kim Kardashian. We came for the bravery of Caitlyn Jenner's (left) journey, but we're staying to keep up with Kim's sweetly awkward transition toward accepting her former stepfather.

CHEERS TO TROIAN BELLISARIO

for reprising a role that Suits her to a T. Is it a crime to love the actress—who kills it as Pretty Little Liars' Spencer—for bringing her brainy beauty back to USA's legal drama as a lawyer with old ties to Mike (real-life beau Patrick J. Adams)? Then we are so guilty.

CHEERS TO WAYWARD PINES

for giving M. Night Shyamalan's 10-part thriller, starring Matt Dillon, an explosive and appropriately twisty ending. I enjoyed the miniseries much more than if I had to wait for years of seasons to get to the same conclusion.

—Jean Callaghan

for his UnReal smack talk. Come on, bud, you are the king of the craziest reality show out there. There's no need to clown on Lifetime's sexy, fun, Bachelor-ish soap, especially since their faux host isn't even as cool as you.

JEERS TO ESPN

for mostly sticking the CrossFit Games online. Despite the high-def-worthy athletic achievements by the likes of champion Ben Smith, much of the annual salute to sick bods was streamed only on the web. That's just weak!

JEERS TO THE EMMY VOTERS

for a Schmidt snub. Yeah, we're still peeved. Clearly, some of you live in an underground bunker, because that is the only excuse for not nominating Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt's Ellie Kemper for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy.
